

Let Us Take Heed...

The following is a locution of Our Lord Jesus Christ with Mother Conchita of Mexico City, foundress of a Religious Congregation devoted to Perpetual Adoration. March 24, 1969, at 4:30 A.M.

I was still sleeping: it was close to the time for the rising bell. I sensed the Presence of Jesus. He said to me: "Get up and write." I hurried over to my writing desk. And He said to Me: "The world is at present worse than when at Nineveh; through Jonah, I warned of the punishment which that people deserved. This means that penance must now be greater than that which Nineveh offered in atonement for that generation."

"Lord, which is the sin that offends Thee most?" I asked.

"The seven capital sins, and they are being committed with a more subtle malice now. They are calling upon My Justice. My daughter. You understand this well, because I have been instructing you for many years. Now then, insist upon this, only tell it as it is: that it is I who am instructing you!"

"Woe to men if they do not do penance, if they do not repent sincerely and detest their sins!"

"Woe to My priests! My daughter, pray and make reparation, and have others pray and make reparation for their sins and for their great wickedness — their own wickedness and that of all their brethren and their priests!"

"Cry out loudly! Quickly, My daughter! Don't be afraid of scoffing nor of the hatred of anyone! Act quickly, so that these leaflets may be disseminated! This message is for today, precisely for today! It must not be left among your notes! You will be hated, but that does not matter, because I love you. You will be mistreated, but that does not matter, because I am protecting you!"

"Send this Message to everyone, My daughter — to seculars and religious, to priests and bishops, especially to the Pope!"

"This very day, My daughter! Send it to the communications media! Above all, take it to the Marian Center!"

"Tell them that it is evident that they no longer have faith."

"If they would only feel at least a little sorrow for their own souls!"

Later on, around 7:00 a.m., Jesus continued, saying:

"They must do this so that the punishment, which has already been decreed, might be withdrawn: (1) Quit committing sin. The indecent way in which women dress at the present time is a mortal sin. In the hour of the punishment they will burn like torches for exposing the parts that give scandal. It is highly immoral for men to permit this in their wives, daughters, and sisters! It is a mortal sin on the part of worldly nuns, who fill me with disgust!"

(2) The second thing they must do: abstain from amusements, even from decent ones.

(3) Let them pray and retire to some secluded place in order to meditate in solitude with Me.

(4) Let them mortify their sense of taste, performing positive acts of real penance to counteract the gluttony which has weakened their spirit.

(5) Let them offer up some bodily mortification.

(6) Let them make a good confession and receive sacramental communion sincerely and with reverence.

(7) Let them consecrate these days to God alone.

If at least some to whom you make this Message known do what I ask, the punishment will be lessened. But if they would do this everywhere, the punishment which they deserve shall be cancelled."

The Big, Bad Blunder

The awakening was harsh and rude.

Only two weeks after the solemn declaration of Reston that "all is well in China" the whole structure blew up leaving the "watchers," "observers" and "experts" in the same idiotic position when, before the uprising of "Maoists" against "Liuists," they persistently proclaimed that the great Chinese Communist Party is invincible, "monolithic" and stands firmly behind the beloved "Chairman."

The second shock was still more painful. The "mighty People's Liberation Army" did not emit a tiniest squeal when Pakistan, the protege of both Red China and the U.S., was utterly defeated by the Indian army supported by the Soviet Union.

But that was not all.

Remembering Kissinger's formula of the "linkage," one can be sure that when he was in Peking and arranged the details of the "deal," one of the thirty shekels which he asked and got was the promise of the Peking's "benevolent neutrality" toward Israel, if, due to the Jewish backstage efforts, Red China would be admitted to the United Nations.

This not only did not happen, but, just to the contrary, the Red China delegate in his maiden speech attacked Israel even more violently than the Soviets usually do, and, adding insult to injury, Golda's "warm congratulations" were coldly and rudely rejected. This sad fact happened although Israel was one of the 76 nations which voted for the so-called "Albanian Resolution" opening the U.N. doors to Peking.

That such ingratitude was entirely unexpected proves the fact that the Time magazine did not dare to mention this part of the speech, although its details were faithfully reported.

Did Chou break his promise, or the regrouped since Lin Piao's downfall Peking government changed its mind and instructed its delegate, Chiao Kuan-hua, to act in a different way?

The second guess is more probable, and it could also explain why Kissinger had to fly to Peking for a second time to find out if the new combination of bosses would be willing to receive Nixon or not.

The hopes of "Jufia" to have in Red China a new, powerful ally of Israel in the U.N. are apparently shattered, and it was openly declared that in the crucial Middle East problem two "Super-Powers," Moscow and Peking, share the same platform!

This is a bad omen which puts in doubt the third assumption that Red China and the Soviet Union will remain enemies forever.

Both nations have communist governments, although of different shades. But in their foreign policies they are "nationalistic" and pursue their own favorable to the nation, interests. Which is normal, understandable, and can be properly evaluated when concluding some or other deal. They are like planes on scheduled flights: the pilots know their final destinations and attempt to bring their ships safely to those places.

On the other hand America at present is a hijacked plane with a "Jufioso" holding a loaded pistol at the head of the State's pilot and ordering him where he should fly. The ship is badly off-course, her destination is uncertain, and it is highly improbable that one can conclude a lasting deal with a hijacker! Chou, the Old Fox, should know this quite well, as he knows too that without a peace in the North no stable government in Peking is possible. And if Moscow and Peking join hands once more, "Jufia" can write finis to all its global aspirations!

BOOK REVIEW

"Sign of the Times"

"Sign of the Times," in conjunction with "When Peter Is Not in Rome" and "Eclipse of the Church," completes a trilogy which constitutes a record on the present state of the church. It also sheds new light on some of the incomprehensible actions of Pope Paul VI which, instead of aiding religious unity, actually spotlighted him as one of the strangest and most controversial popes in Vatican history, and which, in turn, has tended to accelerate and exacerbate schismatic trends in God's visible Church on Earth.

Compiled and written by the same team of experts who produced the other two volumes in this trilogy, Sign of the Times is completely objective in its strict adherence to a guideline of truth. Because truth today is considered to be extremism in action and is for this reason outlawed, it follows that the reader will be shocked by the daring revelations made in this book. Since ignorance in matters of religion of a great number of otherwise well-instructed Christians is truly staggering to the imagination, it follows that this book will be condemned by laymen as well as by the hierarchy of the present church. This is bound to happen because to most, otherwise knowledgeable and faithful Christians, the difference between authentic Christianity vis a vis "authentic" heresy and apostasy is so small as to be of little or no consequence. Yet, this apathy, indifference, and permissiveness is the very reason why ALL Christendom teeters on the brink of dissolution and ultimate extinction. In Sign of the Times, fact is separated from fiction. Consequently, it will give you an accurate insight into what is wrong with contemporary Christianity and the church. If you read this book along with "When Peter Is Not in Rome" and "Eclipse of the Church," you will have been exposed to truth stranger than fiction. This, in turn, will help you to understand and to appreciate why religion and Christianity without truth is incompatible with the Law of God, why schismatic forces are tearing apart God's visible Church on Earth, and why concerned Christians are withdrawing from the church rather than become exposed to heresy and apostasy.

Indifference, ignorance of the truth, and permissiveness in the face of flagrant heresy and apostasy within the church itself, coupled with the fall-out from Vatican Council II, have allowed the free and rapid spreading of all sorts of errors and idiocies from false modern prophets, while truth was underhandedly muzzled and then drowned in a contrived avalanche of lies. Surely, Satan has assaulted the church and ALL Christianity from within as well as from without. The result is that only a comparatively few Christians are really tuned in to the present crisis of the church. Even more appalling is the fact that very few are aware of the brave war that certain priests and laymen are waging every day in defense of the faith, while false shepherds work toward its total destruction, either directly by their words and deeds, or indirectly by guilty toleration. Sign of the Times reveals it all, including Our Lord's plan for restoring His Church at this time.

"Sign of the Times" couldn't have appeared at a better time. Read it now in conjunction with "When Peter Is Not in Rome" and "Eclipse of the Church." Then, you will have the whole story of satanic corruption within and without the church.
